Transition week

This week we will be finishing our bee projects and introducing March. This month we will focus on mindfulness and learn some new child yoga poses, calm breathing, and emotion management.

Parents,

Last month I introduced cutting paper to the list of skills for our Lunch Bunchers. They have proven to be amazing with exercising their control and managing their emotions when they become frustrated. This month, like the last, focuses on fine motor skills to continue that strength. Come March we will transition to gross motor skills, like yoga and bodily control. I encourage lots of fresh fruit, veggies, independence and love for everyone!
